When working with a builder like SBC, rest assured you're getting more than a team that knows exactly how to take those drawings from rendering to residence.

It's our ability to take all of your ideas from the kind planned out from day one to those last-minute kind scribbled on sticky notes and make them more than just ideas. It's what sets us apart, and what brings a little bit of the Montana-family-owned-business into your Montana-family-owned-home.

When working with SBC, you're getting a skilled and dedicated team with a long-standing record of excellence. Delivering on promise, continuous honesty and openness, and an unmatched attention to detail are characteristics you'll find running through the halls of the office right down to your jobsite. We pride ourselves in taking the time to get to know you and your building project, and beginning a long-term working relationship.

Right from the start of your project, you'll see how SBC has earned its outstanding reputation: our team. We are proud to employ the best in the Valley in quality, dependability and downright friendliness. We've built a team that demonstrates dedication, prides itself on the "personal touch", and most importantly, cares about you and your project.

So many key factors contribute to the overall execution of any building project especially one that's built with your dreams in mind. At SBC, we concentrate on the three pillars we consider inherently important to building success: quality, schedule, and budget and then everything else seems to fall into place.

QUALITY

Here at SBC, nothing is more important to us than the quality of our finished product—your home. We will sacrifice little and compromise nothing to meet our joint expectations of extremely high quality.

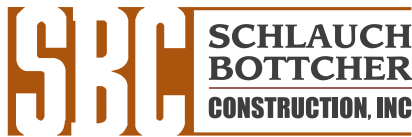

SCHEDULE

It's important to us for you to move into your new home as soon as you can. With that in mind, SBC has created specific companies, launched in-house divisions, and cultivated working relationships with reliable subcontractors to give us the best timeline control possible.

BUDGET

We strive to estimate our costs as closely as we can. From there, we are as upfront and honest about any changes as we would be if it were our own home. And, we think you'll find our progressive billing process a helpful tool to stay in touch along the way.

Building can be an overwhelmingly stressful process, but we're here to show you it doesn't have to be.
